"Rodulfo Brito Foucher: Escritos sobre la Revolución y la dictadura" contains a set of eleven texts politician Rodulfo Brito Foucher published in the journal "Hoy" in 1938, in which he denounces and criticizes the revolution that, in his opinion, had established a dictatorship under the guise of a democratic regime. Beatriz Urias Horcasitas analyzes these texts, and provides additional context on Foucher's intellectual and political profile at the time he wrote them. This is the first time in decades Foucher's writings have been published.

Selección y estudio introductorio de Beatriz Urias Horcasitas. Analiza un conjunto de once ensayos que el político tabasqueño Rodulfo Brito Foucher publicó en la revista "Hoy" entre abril y junio de 1938. Beatriz Urias, además de presentar el perfil intelectual y político del autor y la época, realiza un estudio puntual del contenido de los textos, en los que Brito articuló un análisis de los acontecimientos coyunturales con la denuncia y la crítica a una Revolución que, en su opinión, había instaurado una dictadura bajo el disfraz de un régimen democrático. Esta edición recopila por primera vez estos documentos, que habían permanecido fuera de los reflectores historiográficos por décadas.

"Fronterización del espacio hacia el norte de la Nueva España" offers an epistemological analysis that explains how Mexico's northern border was created and conceptualized in colonial times. The analysis also considers early studies by Turner, Bolton and Powell, as well as subsequent modern-day historical and archaeological research. This is the first study that examines the processes that cemented the wide open spaces of northern Mexico from the perspective of the phenomenon author Cecilia Sheridan calls "frontierization of space." In deconstructing the formation of new territory in the context of colonial power, Sheridan also reveals how the enormous diversity of native groups were reduced to a one-dimensional homogeneous group and extinguished. This work is an original, bold and indispensable contribution to the corpus of empirical and theoretical research on the history, conceptualization and consequences of border creation, not only for Mexico, but for other areas around the world.

The ancient people of Mesoamerica, the Mayans, are renowned for their knowledge on astronomy, reflected in the orientations of their structures. "Orientaciones astronómicas en la arquitectura maya de las tierras bajas" examines nearly 300 buildings on 87 archaeological sites in the Mayan lowlands. When analyzing the data, the authors concluded that the alignments mainly relate to the rising and setting of the sun, providing insight into their relationship with the agricultural cycle and formal calendar system. They also identified various alignments toward Venus and the Moon, leading to additional interpretations.
